How urban India is drowning in neglect

MONSOON MISERY. Unplanned urbanisation has far outpaced infrastructure, leaving cities highly vulnerable to floods

Radheshyam Jadhav
Pune

Heavy rain has left passengers stranded in monorails, buses stuck on waterlogged roads, rail services disrupted, and homes marooned in low-lying areas — the grim reality of Mumbai in the last week.

Each monsoon, the “spirit of Mumbai” is invoked to glorify the city’s resilience but beneath the rhetoric lies the failure of the Brihan-mumbai Municipal Corporation (BMC) to build a robust drainage system and protect waterbodies from encroachment.

DATA FOCUS.

This is not Mumbai’s story alone. Across India, unplanned urbanisation has far outpaced infrastructure, leaving cities highly vulnerable to floods.

RISING IMPACT

A World Bank-GFDRR report (Towards Resilient and Prosperous Cities in India, 2025) notes that between 1985 and 2015, built-up areas expanded 82 per cent in flood-safe zones and 102 per cent in high flood-risk zones. The urban population exposed to a 1-in-100-year flood of 50 cm could rise from 11.1 million in 2023 to 46.4 million by 2070. Annual losses from pluvial flooding already exceed $4 billion, more than double the figure two decades ago. Without remedial action, losses could reach $5 billion by 2030 and between $14-30 billion by 2070. Along India’s 7,500-km coastline, 5,700 km are exposed to cyclones and flooding, affecting 40 per cent of the population. Coastal flood damage costs could rise from $2.4 billion in 2010 to $21 billion in 2030 and $75 billion by 2050, while riverine flooding in cities could cost as much as $770 billion annually by 2050. Climate change and urbanisation are the main drivers of these risks, projected to rise 3.6 to 7 times by 2070. More intense rainfall, erratic monsoons and expanding impervious surfaces are creating frequent floods, with informal settlements in low-lying areas bearing the worst impact.

State-wise details of waterbody rejuvenation projects under Amrut 2.0

INVESTMENT NEEDED

According to the report, under the conservative urbanisation projection, India would need investments worth $2.4 trillion by 2050 and $10.9 trillion by 2070 to make its cities climate-resilient. This translates into 1.67-1.95 per cent of projected GDP by 2050 and 2.13-2.48 per cent by 2070. This is equivalent to $2.16-2.41 trillion between 2021 and 2050, and $9.39-10.95 trillion by 2070 (at constant 2020 prices).

InterGlobe-CAE to launch pilot training centre in Mumbai

Aneesh Phadnis
Mumbai

InterGlobe Enterprises (which owns India’s largest airline IndiGo) and CAE will jointly open a pilot training centre in Mumbai in the first quarter of CY 2026, the companies announced.

This will be the joint venture’s fourth training centre and will support the training needs of Indian airlines, which have around 1,600 aircraft on order.

The development comes as the Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) considers the introduction of a multi-pilot licence (MPL) model, which emphasises on simulator-based training for budding pilots.

The training centre is set become operational in the first quarter of next year. It will be spread over 44,000 sq ft with two Airbus A320 simulators and a total capacity for six full flight simulators.

“The new Mumbai centre expands our ability to meet the rapidly growing demand for professional pilots in India — as many as 20,000 over the next 10 years,” said Michael Azar-Hmouda, CAE’s Division President (commercial aviation).

ELIGIBILITY CRITERIA

Currently pilots complete 200 hours of flying, pass written examinations and clear medical tests to obtain a commercial pilots licence (CPL).

They need to undergo simulator training upon induction in an airline, for type training (on a particular aircraft), while converting from one aircraft type to another, for obtaining commander’s rank or to maintain proficiency. This training is carried out either in simulators in India or overseas, depending upon costs and availability of slots.

“Opening an additional training centre in Mumbai will make getting slots easier. Availability of pilots also improves if training is carried out within India as it involves less travel,” said an aviation expert.

Training facilities in India are being enhanced with Airbus and Air India setting up their facilities. French company Simareo is also set to open a training centre in Delhi. While capacity is being added, questions are being raised whether this will prove adequate should India decide to adopt the MPL model.

MPL will serve as an alternative to the existing CPL-based training but its proposed implementation is being opposed by flying training schools. On the other hand, airlines such as Air India and IndiGo are supporting the move.

“MPL addresses this by integrating competency-based training, airline-specific SOPs and high-fidelity simulation from day one. Unlike CPL, MPL emphasises structured instruction in manual flying, automation management and monitoring. It also includes upset prevention and recovery training, a vital safety intervention not mandated in India’s CPL programmes,” he added.

Corporate loan growth set to pick up pace in 3-6 months, says BoB chief

Piyush Shukla
Mumbai

Banks are likely to see faster pace of corporate loan growth in three to six months as lending rates fall on account of transmission of the 100 basis points (bps) repo rate cut into the marginal cost of funds based lending rate (MCLR). Bank of Baroda MD and CEO Debaddatta Chand said at an FIBAC event on Tuesday.

“Corporates are rightly looking at opportunities in other markets to fund their requirements at a cheaper rate. In that way, I am quite positive on corporate loan demand side,” he said.

The first quarter of any financial year, Chand said, shows that slower pace of corporate loan growth is due to seasonality effect and also as corporates with flush cash balances tend to repay debt faster.

For FY26, BoB expects a similar pace of corporate loan growth as FY25.

BoB’s corporate loans grew 9 per cent year-on-year to ₹4.12 lakh crore during the quarter ended March 2025.

State Bank of India Chairman CS Setty had said corporate funding had shifted towards capital markets and private credit. But there are long-term financial requirements for such clients and banks will have to step up for the next wave of long-term capex, which is essential for India’s growth ambition.

NEXT WAVE

“Deleveraging has taken place in the corporate sector, and companies now hold significant cash balances. Our internal estimates put cash availability at ₹13.5 trillion, which means capex expansion, brownfield investments, ongoing capex... most are being met through internal resources. While many corporates have strong capex plans, these may not fully crystallise into corporate credit as they either have access to capital markets or robust internal funds,” he said.

Chand said India will not be significantly impacted

Under the moderate urbanisation projection, the required investment could rise to $2.9 trillion by 2050 and $13.4 trillion by 2070. This would mean 2.06-2.41 per cent of the GDP by 2050, amounting to $2.47-2.88 trillion between 2021 and 2050.

By 2070, needs would be 2.68-3.12 per cent of the GDP, or $11.52-13.45 trillion (constant 2020 prices).

UNDERAMRUT

Under the Central government’s scheme AMRUT, out of ₹77,640 crore outlay, just 4 per cent was earmarked for storm water drainage. A total of 838 projects worth ₹3,016.82 crore were sanctioned; 809 projects worth ₹2,401.38 crore have been completed, eliminating 3,759 waterlogging points.

Kerala leads with 524 completed projects, removing 1,371 waterlogging points. Sikkim, with only 25 projects, eliminated 853 points — showing extraordinary efficiency. Gujarat and Haryana also recorded strong performance. Maharashtra, despite being flood-prone, had just one sanctioned project worth ₹94.06 crore, eliminating 20 points. Nagaland and Mizoram reported negligible outcomes.

AMRUT 2.0 shifted focus to waterbody rejuvenation, with 3,032 projects worth ₹6,210.66 crore approved.

Birla Opus now 3rd largest in decorative paints

Kumar Mangalam Birla, Chairman of Aditya Birla Group and Grasim Industries

Grasim Industries, an Aditya Birla Group company, will commission its sixth paint facility next month and account for 24 per cent of the industry’s installed decorative paint capacity.

In just six months since its pan-India portfolio launch, Birla Opus has already emerged as the third-largest player in the decorative paints industry; including the putty business, its market share has already crossed the double-digit threshold, Kumar Mangalam Birla, Chairman, Grasim Industries, told shareholders at the company’s annual general meeting.

The strong early momentum reinforces the company’s ambition to become the second-largest player in the sector at the earliest, he added.

EXPANDING FOOTPRINT

In under 18 months, Grasim Industries has commissioned five modern manufacturing facilities with a sixth set to go live in next month, said Birla.

Once fully operational, Birla Opus will command about 24 per cent of the installed capacity in decorative paints industry, he added.

With 175 plus products across more than 1,460 stock keeping units (SKUs) spanning all six decorative paint categories, the company’s footprint now extends to over 8,000 towns. This is underpinned by a network of 141 depots and a differentiated retail strategy led by Birla Opus Studios and Birla Opus Paint Galleries.

“We remain firmly on track to align revenue share with installed capacity share of 24 per cent and to achieve our near-term revenue aspiration of ₹10,000 crore by the third year of full-scale operations,” he said.

Birla Pivot, the B2B e-commerce platform, has clocked a revenue run rate of over ₹5,500 crore. The platform is redefining B2B digitisation by putting AI at the heart of operations. With a catalogue of over 40,000 SKUs and a presence in 375 cities across 26 States in a very short span, Birla Pivot is solving pain points with real impact, he added.

The business revenue continues to grow in line with the plan and remains on track to cross ₹8,500 crore in annualised revenue by FY27, as per the guidance given by the company earlier.
